|          | With fortitude, I can talk to others and witness about my faith without being afraid.                                                                                                                                                                         |
| •        | With temperance, I can control my desires and wait patiently. Instead of eating too much dessert,                                                                                                                                                             |
|          | I will have only one serving.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| •        | With justice, I am able to worship God at Mass and I am able to be fair always when I play games.                                                                                                                                                             |
| •        | With prudence, I am able to know what is right in a given situation and make a good choice. If my                                                                                                                                                             |
|          | friends are all making a bad choice, I will know not to join in and turn away instead.                                                                                                                                                                        |
